We write as representatives of NGOs concerned about human rights. Many of us are active at the level of the United Nations, as well as in our respective countries. We are very pleased that the Honduran Supreme Court of Justice has upheld the constitutionality of prohibiting “emergency contraception” because of its potential to destroy human life.

Science clearly shows that each of us begins our existence as unique and unrepeatable human beings at the moment of conception.

Honduras can be proud of its Supreme Court of Justice for recognizing that scientific fact, and for providing an outstanding defense of your country’s constitutional protection of the right to life.

With this decision, Honduras shows itself as a world leader in the defense of human life and helps contribute to a culture of life nationally and internationally.

With utmost admiration,

TRADUCCIÓN AL ESPAÑOL:

Escribimos como representantes de ONGs que trabajan por los derechos humanos. Muchos de nosotros activamos a nivel de las Naciones Unidas, así como en nuestros países respectivos.

Estamos sumamente complacidos con la determinación de la Corte Suprema de Justicia de Honduras en cuanto a mantener la constitucionalidad de la prohibición concerniente a la “contracepción de emergencia” debido a su potencial de destruir la vida humana.

La ciencia claramente demuestra que cada uno de nosotros comenzó a existir como seres humanos únicos e irrepetibles desde el momento de la concepción.

Honduras debe estar orgulloso de su Corte Suprema de Justicia por reconocer este hecho científico y proveer una defensa excepcional a su protección constitucional al derecho a la vida.

Con esta decisión, Honduras demuestra que es un país líder en la defensa de la vida humana y contribuye a la cultura de la vida a nivel nacional e internacional.

Con suma admiración,
